CONSIGNMENT PROCESS

Details of Consignment

We sell women's clothes including juniors' and plus sizes, accessories, shoes, handbags, jewelry and home décor by consignment. Here's how it works: you bring your quality items to us, we sell them for you and share the proceeds with you.

We reserve the right to reject items if they are stained, soiled, chipped, out of date or in ill repair. If we reject any of your items, please don't take it personally. By limiting our inventory to quality items in good repair, we can sell your items at an overall higher price. Items must be "ready for sale", washed and ironed or dry cleaned. No stains, odors or pet hair. Free of pilling and visible wear. Working zippers and all buttons attached. Contemporary clothing, purchased within last two years. Labels need to be intact.

We will display your items for 90 days. The majority of time will be at full price. Before they expire, items may be reduced for varying periods of time. We will try to get the best possible price for you. Once your items sell, you have two payment choices: 1) in store credit or 2) cash/check for 40% of final price.

Consigner must keep track of their end consignment date. The Consigner will not be notified by Green Door Consignment Company of sales or pending pick-up dates. It is the Consigner's responsibility to call Green Door Consignment Company during the last week of your consignment period to schedule a pick up for unsold items. Any items not scheduled to be picked up at the end of the consignment period or not picked up three days after a scheduled pick up, becomes the property of Green Door Consignment Company. Holiday items must be picked up five days after the holiday or they become the property of Green Door Consignment Company.

After 90 days, unsold items become the property of Green Door Consignment Company and you will not receive credit for these items. These items may be reduced in price or donated to charity.
